

WHAT SACK?

An easy peasy guide to selecting the right refuse sack.

Seldram Supplies
Cleaning & Hygiene Materials

FIRST. CHOOSE YOUR SACK TYPE.

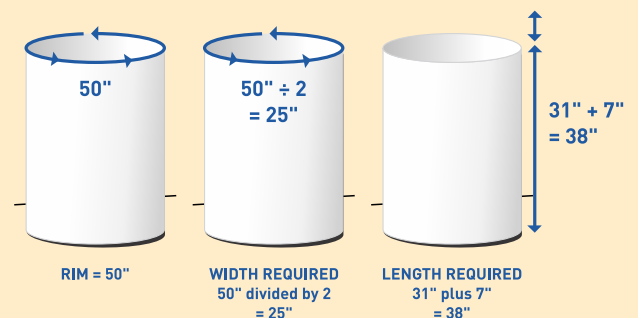

NOW CALCULATE THE SIZE YOU NEED. EASY PEASY.

To calculate which size refuse sack is needed for your square or round refuse bin, please follow this simple formula.

1. To calculate the open width required, measure the rim perimeter of the refuse bin.
2. Divide this (point 1) measurement by 2.
3. To calculate the length of refuse sack required, measure the height of your refuse bin, then add approximately 7 inches to allow for overhang and tying.

PLEASE NOTE: The face width measurement in the product table overleaf is not required when calculating the size of refuse sack you need. This indicates that the refuse sack is gusseted.

EXAMPLE

CONSIDER THE WEIGHT REQUIREMENTS.

What kind of content will be going into the refuse sack?

For example, if you know the refuse sack will be used for heavy waste, then you will need a strong durable sack, such as a 20kg sack. If the sack is needed for light materials such as paper, you may only require a 5kg refuse sack.

Here are some general guidelines/uses:

- A 5kg Paper / General Office Waste
- B 10kg Domestic Waste and Recycling
- C 15kg Catering Food Waste
- D 20kg Industrial Waste

Our refuse sacks are accredited under the Cleaning & Hygiene Association (CHSA) Refuse Sack Standard. The CHSA is the industry body representing the interests of distributors and you, the end user. Under the scheme, refuse sacks are manufactured within stated tolerances and performance criteria, including tear and puncture resistance.

ALMOST DONE. NOW CHOOSE YOUR REFUSE SACK.
